ANCESTORS AND DESCENDANTS OF PEREGRINE PHILLIPS, VINEGAR MANUFACTURER, FROM ENGLAND TO KENTUCKY

By Paul K. Graham, AG, CG, CGL, and Cohen Swiney

Peregrine Phillips, a vinegar manufacturer from Bristol, England, in 1831 patented the contact process for producing concentrated sulfuric acid, a method still employed today. The inventor's story first appeared in Nature in 1926, which relied heavily on historical records in England.<sup>1</sup> Peregrine disappeared from British records after 1831 and Nature was left with little to add: "in all probability this means . . . he left Bristol to seek his fortune elsewhere."<sup>2</sup> Until 2016, Peregrine's now-updated Oxford Dictionary of National Biography entry concluded similarly: "after [1831] no records have been traced of Peregrine Phillips."<sup>3</sup>

British historians had lost track of Peregrine, but descendants knew his fate. The Phillips family immigrated to the United States in 1831 and settled in northern Kentucky and Cincinnati. During the 1860s, Peregrine's children moved to a community in Harrison County, Kentucky, about fifty miles south of Cincinnati. Numerous descendants still live in the region.

Peregrine began keeping a family record with the birth of his first child, noting dates and places of events.<sup>4</sup> Births, marriages, and deaths recorded through 1887 appear in Peregrine's hand (some signed "P. Phillips"), and a female writer—likely one of his daughters—added later events. Peregrine also added information about his siblings and earlier generations on the paternal Phillips lineage.

Frances (Adams) Collins wrote a narrative account in 1974 of Phillips and his descendants, primarily drawing on the 1926 Nature column, Peregrine's family record, and oral history.<sup>5</sup> In 1998, Charles W. Feix privately published a broad but incomplete descendant genealogy.<sup>6</sup> The Feix booklet included other sections containing historical material: abstracts of records (primarily obituaries), the 1974 Collins narrative, the 1926 Nature article, a U.S. patent issued to Peregrine Phillips in 1837, and a collection of family photographs.

The present account fills in gaps in those earlier publications, documenting all of Peregrine's children and grandchildren and expanding the evidentiary record of the Phillips family in the United States. It also outlines the family groups of Peregrine's father and grandfather in Bristol, England, and Haverfordwest, Wales, which he recorded in the family record, and follows the Phillips lineage from its earliest-known origins.

WELSH NONCONFORMIST ORIGINS

The immigrant traced his paternal lineage to Peregrine<sup>E</sup> Phillips, a Welsh Puritan preacher born at Amroth, Pembrokeshire, in 1623, to Edward<sup>F</sup> Phillips.<sup>7</sup> In 1861, Thomas Rees published a thorough sketch of Peregrine's life. "His (the preacher's) father was the vicar of [Amroth], and is described as a good old Puritan, who suffered for not reading the 'Book of Sports.'"<sup>8</sup> The son's studies at Oxford were cut short by the English Civil War, and he soon after became minister at the church at Llangwm, Pembrokeshire, along the River Cleddau. Phillips developed as a preacher, and Oliver Cromwell requested he preach for the army shortly before the Siege of Pembroke in 1648.

By the time the Clarendon Code took effect in the 1660s, Phillips was well known across the region. He refused to comply with the 1662 Act of Uniformity and was ejected as preacher at Llangwm. The Five Mile Act in 1665 forced Phillips out of the town, and he settled on a farm at Dredgeman Hill owned by Sir Herbert Perrott, just beyond the legally prescribed distance of his former church. A later lease for the land still survives (1682).<sup>9</sup>

The minister set up a church in his home at Dredgeman Hill, for which he was “repeatedly fined and imprisoned” for a period of more than twenty years.<sup>10</sup> The persecution ended with the 1687 Declaration of Indulgence, and Phillips arranged for his congregation to meet in Haverfordwest town. The Toleration Act in 1689 allowed the congregation to build a meeting house in the town. Phillips died 17 September 1691, at age sixty-eight.<sup>11</sup>

Peregrine’s son Constantine<sup>D</sup> struggled to make a consistent living at Dredgeman Hill. Signing as “Constant Phillips,” he wrote to his landlord Hester Perrott in 1706 that “I have met with nothing here these many years but losses, crosses, and dreadful disappointments,” and threatened to leave.<sup>12</sup> He would die on 27 July 1739.<sup>13</sup>

Constantine’s only documented son, Peregrine<sup>C</sup>, was baptized on 6 January 1691 and died in March 1781.<sup>14</sup> Baptisms of Peregrine’s children and grandchildren are found in records of the St. Thomas Green Meeting in Haverfordwest.

Peregrine took a strong interest in his father's vinegar manufacturing work and became an astute chemist. He developed "certain improvements in manufacturing [concentrated] sulphuric acid," which involved a catalytic contact process using platinum. Low demand for sulfuric acid in the 1830s meant little recognition or income from the invention, but industrial production expanded dramatically in the late nineteenth century and others refined Peregrine's original process. A patent was issued to him on 21 March 1831.<sup>84</sup> The vinegar manufacturing partnership in Bristol dissolved shortly after, and Peregrine left England with his family on the Cosmo, arriving in New York City on 6 September 1831.<sup>85</sup>

The Phillips family initially settled on Threemile Creek in Campbell County, Kentucky, three miles south of Cincinnati, Ohio. Peregrine paid tax on forty-eight acres of land there starting in 1833, though he did not receive a deed for the land until 1838.<sup>86</sup> He stopped paying tax on the property after 1839, and made a deed of sale in 1846.<sup>87</sup> The reason for a discrepancy in timing between deeds and tax lists is unclear.

Peregrine was not done inventing, and on 17 April 1837 he received a patent from the United States.<sup>88</sup> He had developed an improvement on the process for manufacturing white lead, a key ingredient in white paint. The process he developed was only one way of producing the substance and was not groundbreaking like his sulfuric acid process.

With a patent in hand, Phillips opened a white lead manufacturing company in Cincinnati.<sup>89</sup> His home and business were located at the corner of Plum and Columbia, two blocks from the Ohio River. (Paul Brown Stadium now stands on the location, and nothing remains of the old neighborhood.)

Peregrine returned to Campbell County and farming in the 1840s.<sup>90</sup> Following the Civil War, he retired to Harrison County with his children, where he lived with his son Alfred.<sup>91</sup> Peregrine Phillips died on 6 March 1888 at the home of his daughter Mary (Phillips) Jones, and the short death notice mentioned his birth in Bristol, England.<sup>92</sup>

1876 or 30 Jan. 1876 LEWIS D. TERRY,<sup>99</sup> b. Va. 6 July 1812,<sup>100</sup> d. in his home at Belmont, Cynthiana, 16 (grave marker) or 17 May 1900 (obituary), bur. Battle Grove Cemetery, Cynthiana,<sup>101</sup> m. previously, likely in Harrison Co., Ky., Sarah Ann Hedger.<sup>102</sup>

Susannah made the trip to America just shy of seven months old, and she grew up at her family's homes in Cincinnati and Campbell Co., Ky.<sup>103</sup> In 1860, as a twenty-nine-year-old single woman, she was living in her older sister's house in Cincinnati.<sup>104</sup> It is unclear whether she lived there for an extended period, or only around the time of the 1860 census.

After her marriage, Susannah settled in with John at his house in Campbell Co.<sup>105</sup> They moved to Harrison Co. in the early 1870s, where he purchased one and a half acres of land on Beaver Creek in June 1874.<sup>106</sup> John was twenty-five years Susannah's senior, and died only eight years into their marriage.<sup>107</sup> He wrote a will on 18 Aug. 1875, just under a month before his death, leaving almost the entirety of his estate to his wife (called "Susan" in the will).<sup>108</sup> After her death, the property would go to John's niece Mary J. Allen in Cincinnati. Six of his children by Lucy Young each received one dollar.

Four months after John's death, Susannah married Lewis D. Terry.<sup>109</sup> He and his four children lived on his 150-acre farm on Twin Creek, ten miles west of Cynthiana.<sup>110</sup> Susannah joined the nearby White Oak Methodist Church.<sup>111</sup> In the winter of 1890–1891, Susannah and Lewis moved into a house in Cynthiana, where they lived for the remainder of their lives.<sup>112</sup>

Lewis, an "esteemed citizen age 88," died in May 1900 after an extended illness.<sup>113</sup> His will—written 14 March 1892—was probated 25 June 1900.<sup>114</sup> He left all his property to his wife, which after his death was to be divided among his children (not named).

Remembered as "a woman of many fine traits of character," Susan died at her home on 20 Jan. 1918 after struggling with pneumonia for three weeks.<sup>115</sup> Her will, written on 3 April 1913, did not convey property, but released all

Elizabeth was almost four when she made the trip to America with her parents and two younger siblings, and she grew up in Cincinnati and Campbell County, Kentucky. After her marriage, she and James lived primarily in Cincinnati,<sup>126</sup> though their son was born in Butler County, Ohio, in 1851.<sup>127</sup>

During the decade prior to the Civil War, James worked as a painter.<sup>128</sup> They lived in the Prospect Hill neighborhood and were still there in 1860.<sup>129</sup>

On the eve of the Civil War, James and Elizabeth moved Harrison County, Kentucky, where he purchased land 22 February 1861, situated on the Cynthiana and Claysville Pike near Oddville.<sup>130</sup> James turned to farming in the late 1860s, and he and Elizabeth purchased a 120-acre farm on 29 May 1869, situated on the waters of Beaver and Sycamore creeks.<sup>131</sup> In 1872, James “entered into merchandising,” but ended that endeavor in 1878 to return to farming.<sup>132</sup> That change coincided with a property transfer. James was the grantee on the deed for the family’s farm in 1869, but on 1 April 1878, he transferred the property to Elizabeth. According to the deed, “her means were used in paying the purchase price for the land” back in 1869,<sup>133</sup> the transaction shows Elizabeth’s central role in the family’s finances. Elizabeth also owned a lot in the Walnut Hills neighborhood of Cincinnati, which she gave to her son in 1885 in exchange for some of his land on the Cynthiana and Claysville Pike in Harrison County.<sup>134</sup>

James wrote his will on 1 January 1896.<sup>135</sup> After that date, Elizabeth purchased three tracts of land in her own right. The first came on 24 January 1896, when she bought 62½ acres of land.<sup>136</sup> The next was in 1901, when she added 40 acres on the Oddville and Stoney Point Turnpike Road.<sup>137</sup> Lastly, she purchased another two-and-a-half acres of land in 1906.<sup>138</sup>

James died about 10 o’clock p.m. on 25 August 1909, a “prominent and highly esteemed” member of the community.<sup>139</sup> He had cast his first vote for James K. Polk for President in 1844.<sup>140</sup> He was an Odd Fellow and a Mason (St. Andrews Lodge), and “was [known as] a genial, good-natured, peace-loving, moral, law abiding man. He was industrious and had scant patience with or use for triflers and idlers. He was fond of reading.”

James's will was probated 27 September 1909, one month after his death.<sup>141</sup> In it, he set up a scholarship fund for young women in the community, with applicants drawn from the Episcopal, Christian (Reformed), and Presbyterian churches. The fund's endowment would come from the proceeds of his real estate, which would be sold after Elizabeth's death. Neither his wife nor son were interested in the scholarship idea, because Elizabeth renounced the provisions made for her in James's will (electing instead to take her legal share of the estate),<sup>142</sup> and James P. Hodson contested his father's will.<sup>143</sup> These actions served to end the idea of a scholarship fund.<sup>144</sup>

Elizabeth died on Sunday, 5 September 1915, and the funeral was held at her residence near Oddville the following Tuesday.<sup>145</sup> "Aunt Betsey," as she was called, was remembered as "a woman of much energy and business acumen" and was a long-time member of the Methodist church. Her will, dated 27 January 1910, was probated on 24 January 1916.<sup>146</sup> The simple instructions directed all her property to her son James P. Hodson.

As a young man, Peregrine worked in the grocery business in Cincinnati. "There he was a member of the old volunteer fire department, a Captain of the Rover Cadets, a local military company, and a little later was First Lieutenant of the Rover Guards of State Militia."<sup>163</sup> He moved to Harrison County by 1860, where he manufactured ketchup for a short period of time.<sup>164</sup>

On 21 September 1860, Peregrine bought 58 $\frac{1}{8}$  acres of land in Harrison County on the waters of Sycamore Creek.<sup>165</sup> In a curious transaction, Peregrine and Lucy gifted the land to her brother William T. Beaseman on 19 January 1861,<sup>166</sup> and William sold the land back to them two days later.<sup>167</sup> The purpose of the gift and return of the property is not explained in the documents.

Peregrine served in the Confederate army during the Civil War, enlisting in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, on 20 October 1861.<sup>168</sup> He left the service on 20 November 1862 in Abington, Virginia.<sup>169</sup> Near the end of his life, he received a pension from the state of Kentucky for his military service, which was awarded on 30 July 1912.<sup>170</sup> Peregrine's obituary makes a conflicting claim about the length of his Civil War service, stating that he "served four years."<sup>171</sup>

Peregrine served as a justice of the peace for a short while after the war, and his duties included acting as coroner for inquests. In one case, a man's body was found in a pile of corn fodder in a log house on a farmer's property.<sup>172</sup> A jury was called, including Peregrine's brother Alfred, to determine the cause of death. The man was ultimately identified as Frank Hiltenbrand, who was about fifty years old, and his wife was notified. The jury came to the conclusion that Hiltenbrand died from natural causes.

Peregrine and Lucy sold their 58-acre farm on 21 August 1876 to his sister Mary.<sup>173</sup> The couple did not own a farm after that, living on small properties of one acre or less.<sup>174</sup> After Lucy's death, Peregrine moved in with his daughter Fannie and son-in-law Brack.<sup>175</sup>

Peregrine was sick and bedridden the two weeks leading up to his death.<sup>176</sup> He passed away on Tuesday afternoon, 31 March 1914, at Fannie and Brack Ross's house. He was remembered as a "member of a prominent family" who had been a member of the Red Men and Masonic orders. His funeral was conducted from Mt. Zion Methodist Church.<sup>177</sup>

1834,<sup>194</sup> He died 31 January 1917 in his home in Cynthiana at age 82.<sup>195</sup> He married at J. M. Hodson's house, Hamilton County, Ohio, on 19 October 1858 KATHERINE A. HAUFFMAN, daughter of John Jacob Hauffman and Barbara (both from Bavaria),<sup>196</sup> born in Ohio on 11 January 1839,<sup>197</sup> died at the residence of Mrs. J. T. Argo, Cynthiana, on 30 November 1922 at age 83, buried in Battle Grove Cemetery, Cynthiana, on 2 December 1922.<sup>198</sup> Katherine's death certificate states that she was born 17 January 1839, but the Phillips family record and her obituary give the 11 January date.

Alfred grew up in Campbell County, Kentucky. No known record explains Alfred's activities during the Civil War, but he was not in a federal military unit. After the war, Alfred joined the bulk of the Phillips family when they moved to Harrison County. He purchased seventy-seven acres of land there in January 1869.<sup>199</sup> Two weeks later, Alfred and his brother George jointly purchased sixty acres on the waters of Sycamore Creek.<sup>200</sup> These transactions represented the beginning of more than four decades owning and farming land in that part of Harrison County. In February 1913, as he was retiring, Alfred bought a house in Cynthiana located across from the hospital,<sup>201</sup> and he expanded the property by purchasing an adjoining lot from his son Richard in 1915.<sup>202</sup> This was the house where he lived out his final years. In February 1916, eleven months prior to his death, Alfred sold the farmland he had first purchased in 1869.<sup>203</sup>

Alfred died 31 January 1917. "He was one of the county's good, straight-forward citizens, whom everybody liked and respected."<sup>204</sup> In his will, written 9 May 1914, he left all his property to Katherine during her life, and any remainder would be divided among his sons at her death.<sup>205</sup>

Katherine died in the evening of 30 November 1922. “Mrs. Phillips was a woman of many virtues, of warm and sympathetic heart and generous disposition. She was always thinking of others. During her life she had reared five orphaned children.”<sup>206</sup> She was a member of the Catholic Church.

Katherine’s estate was assigned to the Harrison County public administrator.<sup>207</sup> Although she owned no property, she did hold a note for $1,500 against her son Alfred. In court, Alfred claimed the debt was “erroneous and was executed solely for pacifying his mother who was an aged woman.” His brother Peregrine agreed that it was not a just debt.<sup>208</sup>

Mary’s husband enlisted in the Union Army during the Civil War, serving as a corporal in Company A, 7th Ohio Cavalry.<sup>226</sup> William participated in the Atlanta campaign and was captured near the city on 18 August 1864. He was imprisoned at the notorious Andersonville prison camp in South Georgia for the next year, until the end of the war.<sup>227</sup> He mustered out on 27 June 1865 at Camp Chase, Ohio.<sup>228</sup> Over the course of the conflict William wrote almost one hundred letters to Mary, which still survive.<sup>229</sup>

Mary lived with her younger brother George following her husband’s death.<sup>230</sup> She owned small lots of land, but did not hold them for long. She bought a small lot near her siblings in 1883,<sup>231</sup> only to sell it two years later.<sup>232</sup> In 1896, she bought a lot in Cynthiana from her brother-in-law John W. Moore,<sup>233</sup> then sold it to her sister Emily (Phillips) Moore in 1897.<sup>234</sup>

Harrison County, on 1 January 1917, daughter of Joshua Head and Charlotte Deming.<sup>251</sup>

Robert lived in Cincinnati with his sister Elizabeth and her husband just prior to the start of the Civil War.<sup>252</sup> Despite being twenty-two at the outset of the war, no record has been found showing military service or a civilian activity during that period. After the war, he worked as a teamster in Newport, Campbell County.<sup>253</sup> Robert moved to live with his brothers Alfred and George in Harrison County on Sycamore Creek prior to 1880.<sup>254</sup>

On 3 January 1899, Robert and Elizabeth gifted three small tracts of land on Sycamore and Indian creeks to their son George.<sup>255</sup> How they came to own that land is unclear, since a purchase deed has not been found. In 1900, Robert was enumerated in his son Orville's household in Ruddels Mills in Bourbon County.<sup>256</sup> Elizabeth was not there, and Robert was listed without occupation. Ten years later, Robert and Elizabeth were enumerated together in Paris, Bourbon County, and Robert was working as an engineer at a pump station.<sup>257</sup>

The morning of Robert's death, he woke as normal and sat on the porch for a while. He then returned to bed but did not wake up again.<sup>258</sup> His death was unexpected, but he had been suffering the effects of kidney disease for some time. "He was a man of fine character and of a jolly, light-hearted disposition that made him a favorite with all friends."<sup>259</sup>

When the Phillips family moved to Harrison County, Kentucky, after the Civil War, they lived together on land owned by George and Alfred Phillips.<sup>281</sup> That is where Emily met her husband John, who had moved from Maryland and worked as a farm hand on Alfred's farm.<sup>282</sup> Their daughter was born a year after they married.

The Moores started as farmers in Harrison County.<sup>283</sup> They moved into Cynthiana in the early 1890s when John bought a lot there from Alfred C. Phillips.<sup>284</sup> He sold the land to Emily, which she in turn sold in 1897 to her sister Mary.<sup>285</sup> Emily and John had moved to Dayton, Campbell County, by 1897,<sup>286</sup> then on to Milan, Indiana, by 1900.<sup>287</sup> John had taken up the occupation of furniture dealer.

The family moved back to Cynthiana by 1903, when John began working as a rural mail carrier.<sup>288</sup> He worked for the post office until his retirement in the late 1920s.<sup>289</sup> Emily died in December 1929, after a short illness,<sup>290</sup> and John passed away in 1932. He had been ill for several years before his death. His obituary spoke to his "very creditable record in the service and was known as one of the most painstaking and accomodating [sic] carriers."<sup>291</sup>

George lived a farmer's life. He grew up in Campbell County and moved to Harrison County with the Phillips family after the Civil War.<sup>301</sup> In his early twenties, he and his brother Alfred purchased sixty acres—then another 4¼ acres—together on the waters of Sycamore Creek.<sup>302</sup> On 2 October 1880, the brothers divided 62½ acres of that land: George received 42¾ acres and Alfred received 19¾ acres.<sup>303</sup> Soon after, George bought another 68½ acres

PEREGRINE PHILLIPS FAMILY RECORD

Peregrine's family record passed among his descendants through the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. Frances (Adams) Collins implied her possession of the record in 1974: "we can draw upon his Bible record and tales as told by his children to their great grandchildren." Peregrine seems to have drawn ancestral details from a Bible—originally owned by the preacher Peregrine—brought with the family to America. According to Collins, it was destroyed in a fire in the late nineteenth century.<sup>322</sup>
